James B. De Young

James B. De Young is professor of New Testament Language and Literature at Western Seminary, Portland, OR, where he has taught for 34 years. Prior to this he taught at Multnomah School of the Bible in Portland (now Multnomah Bible College) from 1971 until 1975. He has a diploma from Moody Bible Institute (1962), a BA from East Texas Baptist University (1965), a BD (1968) and ThM (1969) from Talbot Theological Seminary, and a ThD (1973) from Dallas Theological Seminary.

He has published the following books: Beyond The Obvious: Discover the Deeper Meaning of Scripture (Co-authored with Sarah L. Hurty; Gresham: Vision House, 1995); A Syntax Reader for the Greek New Testament (Eugene: Wipf & Stock, 2002); Homosexuality: Contemporary Claims Examined in Light of the Bible and Other Ancient Literature and Law (Grand Rapids: Kregel, 2000); Terrorism, Islam, and Christian Faith (Eugene: Resource Publications, 2004); a commentary on the Epistles of John in The Evangelical Commentary on the Bible; and has written articles for Bibliotheca Sacra, Journal of the Evangelical Theological Society, Masters Seminary Journal, The Best in Theology, vol. 4 (1990), The Gospels and the Scriptures of Israel (1994) and other publications.

In June 2008 Dr. De Young published a paper entitled "Revisiting The Shack and Universal Reconciliation" available online. Dr. De Young writes from the perspective of having a 12 year personal relationship with the author of The Shack, William Paul Young.

He has been married to Patricia for 44 years, has four married children, and ten grandchildren. He lives in the country where he has a mini farm and raises rhododendrons, Christmas trees, and beef cattle.
